

I wish to support the State of Wisconsin's more restrictive (than Federal) no telemarketing rule. I thoroughly enjoy not being bugged by telemarketers. If a company that I am doing business with wants to reach me they can write me. I would be a fool to agree to some new service or change in service based solely on a telephone call anyway.

Challenging the Wisconsin rule by the Federal government would result in Wisconsin suing the Federal Government and regardless the outcome a lot of tax money would be spent on both sides. Save Wisconsin the money and aggravation, don't try to weaken our law.
